Is it possible to inject variables into javascript object by using the string interpolation method? I mean I want to inject the version variable to my versionOfMyApp: "" + version without using the bracket notation. Something like this (jsfiddle):// Our script (function($) { $.fn.myPlugin = function() { console.log(this.versionOfMyApp); }); })(jQuery) ; //injecting the variable as shown above var version = "1.0.1" ; $.myPlugin.versionOfMyApp = "" + version; $("body").myPlugin(); Or: How to inject variables into javascript function which is inside an object dynamically? A: You can use the following to accomplish this: var name = "v" + version; var obj = { obj[name] = func; objname}; Q: Redux application not fetching page I'm new to react. I'm using create-react-app to build my application. I'm using react-router-dom for routing in my application. Here's my App.js: import React from 'react'; import { Provider } from 'react-redux'; import { BrowserRouter } from 'react-router-dom'; import AppHome from './components/AppHome'; import Login from './
