An Ohio State University sociology professor has been put on leave after she wrote a book about the alleged anti-gay attitudes of Pope Francis. Dr.

Rebecca Hagelin has just been given a contract extension to complete her book, titled "Standing at the Crossroads: Pope Francis, Benedict XVI, John Paul II, and Gay Liberation." The book was published in April, and quickly became the subject of controversy as students and faculty called for Hagelin's termination. One student, Christian Lee, said the book is "disturbing" and "filled with hateful rhetoric." After The Daily Caller revealed Lee's comments, The Ohio State University issued an official statement announcing Hagelin's indefinite leave. f3e1b3768c
