creativity, with video-capture, screen-capture, drawing, and more. Feature set, speed and price.. "Fraps does everything you'd want in a screen capture. to specifically target a part of the brain in each individual. I'm not sure about that. By my understanding, cell replacement therapy is generally only feasible if a small population of cells is transplanted, and it is a long-shot that the rest of the recipient's brain will be transformed by the intervention. It is not a therapeutic approach that I would endorse for brain trauma, as the information I have access to in that area is not sufficient to know what would be tolerable or not.
