This proposal represents a direct continuation of the candidate's long-standing interests in behavioral and genetic analysis of nicotine and food abuse. It is designed to further establish the candidate as an independent investigator, a program that has already been achieved. Furthermore, it is a component of a Program Project that involves four laboratories from the University of Colorado, at Boulder, and Colorado State University, at Fort Collins, Colorado. The overall goal of the overall program is to gain a better understanding of neural mechanisms that underlie the reinforcing properties of drugs of abuse and drug-related cues. The program includes a series of studies designed to delineate the effects of mGluR2/3 antagonists on behavior in animals trained to self-administer drug or food, and the effects of mGluR2/3 antagonists in mPFC on the expression of conditioned place preference for morphine. The studies are intended to test the hypothesis that: (1) mGluR2/3 antagonists attenuate the reinforcing properties of nicotine; (2) mGluR2/3 antagonists attenuate the rewarding properties of food; and (3) mGluR2/3 antagonists in mPFC regulate the expression of conditioned place preference for morphine. The proposed experiments will provide data relevant to the understanding of smoking and compulsive eating, with the potential to lead

Bioscience and Agriculture* is published quarterly. The journal has strong editorial collaboration with the UK journal: *Biomedical Engineering*. It publishes manuscripts reporting original research in all areas of biomedical engineering. The *Special Issue Contributions on Engineering, Technology, Medicine, Bioscience and Agriculture* is a freely available electronic journal which is available from *www.ijmbes.net.* *Director: 2014-2015* The "The Best Paper Awards *In-Competition* by *Cheng Jiankang* The Invention of Robotics Engineering (2014-2015)".* The In-Competition Award is administrated by the Chinese Association of Robotics Engineering and sponsored by the Ministry of Science and Technology, China. The paper published in this journal is recommended for the Award of "Best Paper in Biomedical Engineering" due to the excellent presentation, clear and concise content, and correct referencing. The *Special Issue Contributions on Engineering, Technology, Medicine, Bioscience and Agriculture* will publish papers on topics that represent all aspects of biomedical engineering. The acceptance rate is about 40%, and any manuscript that has been scientifically peer reviewed is welcome to submit a manuscript, so long as it complies with the journal's instructions. The length of the manuscript should not exceed 5000 words. Any type of language---whether English, or Chinese---is allowed. *570a42141b
