Protect your property 'Stamping in' is a problem that has caught the attention of the Surrey Police. Inspectors are targeting vehicles which they believe are stamping in on our roads. This is a serious offence. Failure to correctly display a registration may result in prosecution and imprisonment if the vehicle is uninsured. The majority of cases currently handled by Surrey Police appear to be in Cranleigh, Bletchingley and Leith Hill. Surrey Police and the Department of Transport and New Towns have met with representatives of the Vehicle and Operator Services Agency (VOSA) to discuss the problem. We understand that there are similar incidents being uncovered in other boroughs. These crimes may also be committed by those attending vehicle clinics when their vehicles are left at the site without the owner's knowledge. For more information please go to www.standardregister.co.uk. The website also contains details for people needing a new registration number. You can also report the crime to us on 101. It is better to ring rather than write a report on the standard register, as it will be a different number. The effect of the lanthanide LnDPA complexes on a rat striatal adenine nucleotide cycle. 1.
