Integrin alpha 4 beta 7 recognition of fibronectin is functionally linked to mucosal adhesion in vivo. Integrin alpha 4 beta 7, expressed on leukocytes, binds to fibronectin, which is expressed by both cells and extracellular matrix in the gastrointestinal tract. The recognition of fibronectin by alpha 4 beta 7 is thought to be important for the recruitment of leukocytes in mucosal inflammation and ulceration. In this study, alpha 4 beta 7 recognition of fibronectin was examined by a novel in vivo assay. alpha 4 beta 7-deficient mice were compared with wild-type mice with respect to adhesion to human and murine fibronectin. Wild-type mice were more adherent to human than to murine fibronectin, whereas alpha 4 beta 7-deficient mice showed a strong preference for murine fibronectin. The human-murine specificity was more pronounced for fibronectin dimers than for trimers. Adhesion of alpha 4 beta 7-deficient cells to both human and murine fib 77a5ca646e

Credit: Oasis Production Software 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to an ophthalmologic apparatus that controls an irradiation unit for irradiating the inside of an eye with an irradiation beam. 2. Description of the Related Art In ophthalmology, to determine whether there are abnormalities in the interior of an eye or the exterior thereof, an examiner visually observes the interior of the eye using a slit lamp microscope, or performs an ocular fundus examination, such as a fundus color photography or a fundus fluorescein angiography. The examiner observes the image of the fundus photographed by a fundus camera or observed by the slit lamp microscope by performing close attention to the light reflected from the fundus and decides whether there is any abnormality or not. In recent years, there have been developed devices in which a small camera device is built in an ophthalmologic apparatus, such as a slit lamp microscope, and a fundus camera image is automatically recorded. A fundus image that has been photographed by the fundus camera is displayed on a display device, such as a liquid crystal monitor, to allow the examiner to observe the fundus image. Since there is a limit to the number of fundus images that can be displayed on the display device of the apparatus, the examiner needs to perform a close observation using the display device of the apparatus and make a decision regarding the abnormality or non-abnormality of the fundus. However, since there are as many fundus images as that which can be displayed on the display device of the apparatus, it is
